me: howdy
Mark: hey whats up man me: we're finally getting things started with Project PM, got a website being made, a wiki on the way, got Charles Johnson helping with the software, and about to announce our science journalism improvement project in my next column for Skeptical Inquirer me: we also just set up an irc channel me: which you should check out, as it's pretty interesting what with all the erudite participants me: you been working on anything new?
Mark: my day job has taken on a life of its own Mark: so besides my column for INOSMI, I haven't been writing much Mark: I'm supposed to write something for the Thoguht Catalog Mark: but haven't gotten aroudn to it yet me: been on Russia Today lately?
Mark: not since July Mark: part of it was that they kept calling and I was busy/at work Mark: I think they got a little annoyed with that me: they should have let you just use a webcam like I did Mark: not a bad idea me: I'm going to forward you some updated info on Project PM me: also, let me know if you'd like to access our irc channel, it's developing into a pretty interesting environment
Mark: thanks man
Mark: I'm going to be on vacation to the UK for a couple of weeks, so I'll be out of dodge for awhile Mark: but hope the project PM stuff keeps developing!
me: have fun, what are you doing there?
Mark: a friend is getting married Mark: and then i'm just going to chill for awhile me: spying for the Kremlin, gotcha Mark: oh yeah, destroying freedom is a big priority of mine me: I'm not sure there's a whole lot of freedom to destroy over there Mark: my job is to mop up what little is left me: I guess you could install additional cameras... me: or make it crime to look at a Muslim without smiling me: anyway, have "fun" at your "wedding"
